HDBR delays changes until survey, review

BY MARK CAMPBELL
After working through its slate of new applications on Monday, Madison’s Historic District Board of Review (HDBR) revisited some old business of its own by resuming a discussion pertaining to the board’s policies and procedures and whether those changes can be made without Madison City Council approval.

In the end, board members once again agreed to shelve the discussion but this time to allow the process to proceed in a more orderly fashion as part of the comprehensive review currently being conducted on the Madison Historic District, which is listed in the National Register of Historic Places and designated as a National Historic Landmark.

The board began the discussion by debating whether notification by certified letter should be restored to the application process to make sure that adjoining property owners have ample notice of work that will be done by their neighbors but hit a snag when the question came up on who could make that call — the Historic District Board of Review through its policies and procedures or Madison City Council by ordinance. The ordinance that governs buildings in the historic district and the application process property owners must follow to work on those structures was adopted by city council but the HDBR has made some procedural modifications since then. Link Ludington, a qualified preservation professional who attended Monday’s meeting, urged the board to hold off on making anymore changes now in favor of a more comprehensive review of the Historic District ordinance — something he said has been started several times but not completed — to then develop policies and procedures for the board’s operation.

Old Settlers’ back Saturday as one-day event

BY BOB DEMAREE
For Ginger Sexton, Neavill’s Grove — the shady meeting place northwest of Madison between Smyrna and Volga on West Deputy Pike — is a special place. “I love the Grove,” she said. “It takes me back in time with the big beech trees and the beautiful surroundings.”
On Saturday Sexton and others will meet at the Grove for the 136th time out of the last 137 years to celebrate community and fellowship with the 136th Old Settlers’ Meeting.
Old Settlers’ — organized in 1885 and first held in 1886 — had continued every year until last year when it was canceled due to COVID-19. Although the pandemic is still communal problems, the Settlers’ meeting is back this year with some changes. The meeting was made into a three-day event in 1984, but will be a one-day gathering this year on Saturday, Aug. 28, due to the continuing pandemic and financial reasons.
Sexton, president of the Neavill’s Grove Association, said proceeds from the festival go to improve and maintain Neavill’s Grove, a community park at 6576 Deputy Pike that was donated by Edward Neavill, grandson of George Neavill, an early settler in the community.
The 2021 event will officially open at 11:30 a.m. Saturday followed by a vintage tractor parade at noon. Throughout the day, there will be an antique tractor display including working demonstrations.
At 1:30 p.m., there will be a bake-off contest with homemade cakes, fruit pies and cookies. And at 2 p.m., there will be games and contests with prizes for the winners. There will be a homemade ham and bean supper at 4 p.m.

with cornbread, cakes and pies.
“We have a lot to eat,” said Sexton.
The Country Kickers Line Dancers will perform from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m. in which Sexton is a participant. “I love to line dance,” she said. And the

Paul Boggs Band performs from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m., who Sexton noted is “a big supporter of the Grove.”
Sexton noted the Old Settlers’ Meeting has been drawing visitors for generations so it will be good to gather once again even if for only a day.

“Grandparents bring their grandkids, then the grandkids grow up and later bring their grandkids,” she said, noting that everyone who comes to Neavill’s Grove enjoys it and wants to come back. “We love the Grove and want to keep it going.”

JCHD: COVID-19 threat still high despite move to ‘Orange’

BY BOB DEMAREE
COVID-19 cases are overwhelming hospitals throughout Indiana and Kentucky and on Wednesday the Indiana Department of Health announced 5,037 new positive cases while the Kentucky Department for Public Health reported 4,658 new cases.
Meanwhile, Jefferson County’s COVID metric actually improved to the “Orange” range — indicating medium to high community spread after two weeks in the “Red” for high spread — but Jefferson County Health Department Administrator Tammy Monroe said that improvement should ing COVID tests increases, the positivity rating tends to decrease because most tests are negative while the actual number of new infections remains a concern.

On Wednesday, 25 new positive cases of COVID-19 were reported in Jefferson County but the county’s metric status improved because more people took the test and tested negative for COVID-19.
The county’s weekly cases per 100,000 residents remains at Level 3 for Red. Meanwhile, the 7-day all-test positivity score is at Level 2 for Orange,

Swiss Wine Festival returns with full slate of events

BY BOB DEMAREE
A year after being canceled by COVID-19 like most other community festivals, Vevay’s Swiss Wine Festival is back in 2021.
“Everything is full speed ahead,” said Andy Truitt, vice president of this year’s festival at Ogle Park in Vevay, which runs today through Sunday. “We are ready and are excited about it.”
Making this year’s even happen has been a challenge after the pandemic impacted sponsorship dollars, but the Switzerland County Council, Switzerland County Tourism and the Vevay-Switzerland County Foundation have all come through with financial support to make up for a decrease in sponsorship dollars.

Ripley County teen convicted in suffocation deaths of siblings

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
VERSAILLES — A Ripley County teenager has been convicted of suffocating two of his young siblings months apart in 2017, when he was 13 years old.
A Ripley County jury deliberated about six hours Friday before convicting Nickalas Kedrowitz, 17, of two counts of murder in the killings of his 23-month-old half-sister, Desiree McCartney, and his 11-month-old stepbrother, Nathaniel Ritz.
He faces up to 65 years in prison for each murder count when he is sentenced Nov. 10.
Kedrowitz was arrested in August 2018 in the May 2017 killing of Desiree and the July 2017 killing of Nathaniel.

Both were pronounced dead at a hospital less than 90 days apart after being found unresponsive at the family’s home in Osgood, about 60 miles southeast of Indianapolis.
Ripley County Prosecuting Attorney Ric Hertel said Kedrowitz admitted to suffocating Desiree with a towel after she got out of the bathtub, and told investigators he had suffocated Nathaniel with a blanket, WLWT-TV reported.
According to an affidavit filed when he was arrested in 2018, Kedrowitz was speaking to investigators when he began “talking about saving Desiree and Nathaniel from hell and the chains of fire.”

He then added that “he didn’t want them to have to live in the hell that he did,” before going on to describe how he suffocated the children.
When asked what that “hell” was, the boy replied “chores,” before asking investigators if they’d seen the list of daily chores he had to complete, the affidavit states.
The case faced numerous delays over the years, including hearings to determine Kedrowitz’s mental competency and his waiver to adult court.

Man dies in Ohio County UTV crash with car

BY THE COURIER STAFF
A Rising Sun man died from injuries he sustained in a two-vehicle accident involving a UTV and a passenger car on Tuesday in Ohio County.
Troopers from the Indiana State Police-Versailles Crash Reconstruction Team were called to investigate the crash on Salem Ridge Road in rural Ohio County.
According to a report filed by Trooper Jacob Tolle a 2018 Polaris Ranger UTV driven by Leo Philpot, 63, Vevay, Indiana, was traveling westbound on Salem Ridge Road, east of Poor House Hill Road and a 2018 Chevrolet Malibu driven by Alexander Lynn, 35, Vevay, Indiana was traveling westbound on Salem Ridge Road, approaching Philpot’s vehicle from behind.

Philpot attempted to make a left turn into a field and Lynn’s car entered the eastbound lane to pass Philpot’s vehicle. The car collided with the rear of the UTV, pushing it off the south side of the road and causing it to overturn. A passenger in Philpot’s UTV, Brandon Foutty, 34, Rising Sun, Indiana, was partially ejected from the vehicle during the collision.
Foutty was transported to St. Elizabeth Dearborn Hospital in Lawrenceburg where he was pronounced dead by the Dearborn County Coroners Office. Philpot was transported to an area hospital for treatment of non-life threatening injuries and Lynn was not injured in the crash.

Toxicology results on the drivers involved in the crash are pending at this time.
The Indiana State Police-Versailles Crash Reconstruction Team was assisted by the Ohio County Sheriffs Department, Aurora Police Department, Indiana Conservation Officers, Rising Sun Fire Department, Dearborn County Coroners Office and Affordable Todds Wrecker Service.

brought down by the greater number of tests and that puts the weekly metric at 2.5, which is the average of the two scores. Jefferson County’s 7-day positivity rate for all tests is 13.3% with a 7-day positivity for unique individuals at 16.8%.
“It remains our strong recommendation for masking for everyone in indoor public settings regardless of vaccination status,” said Monroe, who added that includes masking for all teachers, staff, students and visitors to K-12 school, regardless of vaccination status. “Our recommendations have not changed from the last week.”
In addition, Monroe highly recommends vaccination for everyone eligible.
Meanwhile, Switzerland County remains in the “Red” metric status for high community spread, reporting 21 new positive cases in the past day, along with one new death, bringing the county’s overall death toll during the pandemic to nine. Switzerland County’s 7-day positivity rate for all tests is 11.5% with a 7-day positivity for unique individuals at 30.1%.

Jefferson County’s death total remains at 90. The death total in Indiana increased by 19 in the last day, bringing the overall toll to 13,903. On Tuesday, KDPH reported 17 new deaths increasing Kentucky’s total during the pandemic to 7,575. Carroll County’s death total remained at 21 and Trimble County at eight.
According to the Associated Press, Indiana’s latest surge of COVID-19 infections has pushed hospitalizations and intensive care unit treatments for the illness to levels last seen in January. As of Monday, Indiana hospitals were treating 1,956 patients, a nearly 30% jump in one week and up almost five times for the state’s level of about 400 patients a day six weeks ago in early July. Hospitals reported treating about 500 people in intensive care units, taking up to 23% of available

ICU beds, compared to about 65 patients in 3% of ICU space in early July.
In Kentucky, the AP reported record numbers of COVID-19 patients in hospitals and intensive care units. More than 1,890 virus patients were reported hospitalized in Kentucky including 529 in intensive care units, and a record Kentucky virus patients were on ventilators, according to information from the office of Kentucky Gov. Andy Beshear.
“Our hospitalizations have been doubling just about every two weeks,” Beshear said. “And folks, that means we are getting really close to every single bed across the entire commonwealth that we can staff being full.”
On Tuesday, Trimble County reported 10 new positive cases of COVID-19 while Carrol County had 13 new cases. The positivity rate in Trimble County is 22.12% while the positivity rate in Carroll County is 14.93%.
On Friday, Shawe Memorial High School and Pope John Elementary School are partnering with Jefferson County Health Department for a COVID-19 vaccination clinic for students, staff, parents or Prince of Peace parishioners from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Shawe’s Hilary Meny Gymnasium. Any students being vaccinated will need to have a form signed by their parents/guardians.

“We hope that this will help some students, families, staff and parishioners get vaccinated if they haven’t had a chance yet,” said Phil Kahn, president of Prince of Peace Catholic Schools.
JCHD is accepting walk-ins for COVID-19 vaccinations at its office at 715 Green Road, Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Three vaccines — Pfizer, Moderna and Johnson & Johnson — are available. Individuals ages 12-17 must receive Pfizer vaccine and have an adult present.
Switzerland County Health Department continues to operate a vaccine clinic at 1190 West Main Street, Vevay.
All Kentuckians can sign up for a COVID-19 vaccination appointment near where they live or work at vaccine.ky.gov.

“Band names are funny things,” Robert continues. “They kind of take on their own personality as a band gets more popular. If you think about the name, The Beatles, which was a take on Buddy Holly’s band, The Crickets, it was kind of a silly, juvenile name. But the genius of their music and popularity made it a household word.
“That being said, that kind of big success and popularity are not what I’m hoping for with the 67 Sun project. I did a version of that with The Mavericks, and it required sacrifices I’m not interested in making again.
“Success for this band will be much more based on quality, not quantity.

Grammy winning artist Robert Reynolds and his new band 67 Sun will debut their first album on Saturday, Sept. 4, at Red Bicycle Hall in downtown Madison.

I’d like to see us opening for some big festivals, maybe six or eight a year. We’re looking for what I like to call tasteful gigs, where the music is really listened to and appreciated. And of course, I see us playing here in Madison a couple times a year.
“You have to remember, most of the guys in the band have day jobs and are not interested in being in a touring band at this stage of their life. Mark Bear, our drummer, has the furniture store, of course. Tim Halcomb plays bass and is very discriminating about what shows he wants to do. Woody Woodmansee has an ad agency down in Louisville. Brent Evans, who will be filling in on keyboards for this Red Bike show, has a recording studio and lots of other irons in the fire.

“Now Darryl Hewitt, our lead guitar player, is another story. He actually might love a life on the road and playing five nights a week! Darryl just loves to perform, and he brings that energy to every show he does, whether playing solo or with a full band. My friendship with Darryl, and our musical relationship, is one of the truly special things about my life in Madison.
“People often ask me what kind of music we are creating, and I tell them that 67 Sun is a ‘jangle & twang’ band. Think about the jangle sound of the early Birds music, and combine that with the California twang that was part of the early authentic country music scene.

“If that’s kind of hard to imagine and hear in your head, I would say don’t even try. You don’t have to imagine it, you can just come to the album release party and hear it for yourself!
“We’re pulling out all the stops for this event. My good friend John Mann and his full band will be our very special guest to open the show. We have Buzzy Ford joining us to play some harmonica. And we’ve lined up a full horn section to fill out the sound, including Dave Butler, Brook Reindollar, Carrie Reindollar, and Rick Bennett.
HOT TIP OF THE WEEK
It’s a three-timer for Three for Silver this weekend! Anyone familiar with the band Snaps for Sinners, who have performed numerous times in Madison over the last few years, will know and love the visually flamboyant and musically gifted violin player Corwin Zekley. Corwin is with Three for Silver now, and you have three opportunities to see them perform, starting with Live Lunch at Lytle Park on Friday. Another special show you’ll want to keep on your radar is the latest iteration of the Mad Paddle band, led by Joe Perkinson and featuring an all-star cast. Check them out on Saturday at Mad Paddle, of course!

Child support collections up 12.3% in Jefferson County

BY SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

The month of August is dedicated to bringing awareness to Child Support Services in Indiana. Many residents are not aware they can contact their local prosecutor for assistance with enforcing child support orders.

Jefferson County Prosecutor David Sutter wants to educate and inform parents, guardians, grandparents, or other custodial parties in how to access child support services through his office.

Child Support services can help custodial parents establish child support orders, paternity, and other resources which promote the well-being of children. Sutter says, “Many of these services are not widely known to the general public and can be accessed without hiring an attorney.” The services, claims Sutter, are vital to those seeking help with locating non-custodial parents, establishing paternity, and medical or child support orders.

Prosecutor Sutter recently announced child support collections in our community have increased by 12.3%. In 2020, the Jefferson County Prosecutor’s Office collected and distributed over $2.4 million in child support to children and families in the community, a significant increase from the 2019 total. As of July of this year, collections are already on track to exceed the 2020 totals and the Prosecutor’s child support office is performing above state and national averages in all measured categories.

“We have certainly seen a COVID-19 related increase in our collections due to federal stimulus payments that are intercepted and delivered directly to children and families under a child support order, but we have also placed an emphasis on increasing our collections,” said Sutter.

Child support payments are crucial to a child’s well-being and provide a court-approved method for helping to ensure children are supported financially when their parents’ divorce. Child support payments are intended to help the custodial parent maintain a similar quality of life for a child as he or she enjoyed before the divorce.

These payments not only cover basic necessities such as food, clothing and shelter but also may be used for educational expenses and extracurricular activities, such as sports or hobbies.

According to Sutter, “Regular child support can mean the difference for a child to remain in their home, and have food, clothing, and other needs met. It impacts everything we do in our office,” said Sutter, explaining that as paternity and child support is established, it leads to fewer children living in poverty and lowers the likelihood they will one day become involved in the criminal justice system.”

In Indiana, child support payments continue until the child reaches age 19 or is emancipated in another way.

Judges use child support guidelines to determine the amount of child support payments. Non-custodial parents must make their court-ordered payments or face wage garnishment, being found in contempt of court and even jail time.

“As your county prosecutor, I take the well-being of our children seriously, and believe that consistent child support payments can help custodial parents achieve economic stability,” he said.

Sutter stressed his child support staff is friendly, knowledgeable, and ready to assist. “There is really nothing to be afraid of; you’re taking action to best serve your children and protect your rights. It’s an easy process and we keep you informed every step of the way.”

“Instead of looking at little issues piecemeal, I’d urge you to do a top to bottom review,” Ludington said, later adding, “This has been going on for decades and I’ve never seen anything that allows the board to add to the application process without council approval ... In my view it’s never quite operated the way we intended it to.”

Ludington said the HDBR “may have some good ideas but it should be the council to decide that” so that the process is “carried through to completion.”

Josh Wilber, chairman of the HDBR, said that process is already underway in the form of a survey and review to update and revise guidelines in the Madison Historic District.

In fact, the city has applied for and received a $27,793 matching grant from the Division of Historic Preservation & Archaeology to survey the district and update and revise historic district design guidelines. Mayor Bob Courtney has already put that process in motion.

“The process is currently being laid out by the mayor and that’s why I have not pursued working on guidelines until the survey is done, the ordinance is reviewed and the council has reviewed it,” Wilber said.

“The ordinance is really what should be our guideline,” Wilber added, noting decisions should be based on the soon to be completed updated historic district survey and data rather than opinions.

“To me we’re going backwards if we do the guidelines, then the survey and then the ordinance,” Wilber said. “That doesn’t make sense. I do think we need the ordinance looked at by a group of individuals who will then present that to the city council to make any revisions and changes ... you have to go through this in the right way so that we have good information, good data so that we can update that in the correct way that they need to be done.”

Wilber said such data was lacking in past discussions on changing HDBR policies and procedures but that should not be a problem after the survey and review are completed.

“There was a lot of opinions and what we don’t want to get into is too much opinions,” he said. “We want to have more facts and data to help us change the guidelines in the right way.”

Husband has a wandering eye

Dear Annie: My husband and I are both in our mid-60s and retired. He has a habit that is really starting to irk and hurt me the last few years. When we're out together and he sees attractive women, he always looks twice at them. He apologizes but then, after a couple of weeks, does it again! I have told him, repeatedly, that it is disrespectful and that if I don't do it for him anymore, he should go get what he is looking for — but that he shouldn't expect to be able to come back afterward. He says that I'm jealous and immature. I say that he should know better. What do you say? — Weary of Watching Him Watch Them

Dear Weary: Leering is one thing; just looking is another. If your husband is merely taking quick second glances at women, let it go. It's normal — healthy, even — to take momentary notice of attractive people. It doesn't mean he finds you any less attractive. As long as he's being faithful to you, physically and emotionally, that's what matters.

Dear Annie: I cannot believe I am asking for advice. Here goes! My mom, with whom I was very close, passed away 21 months ago. Annie, my life has never been the same.

I cared for Mom when she became unexpectedly ill. I witnessed her last breath. By all accounts, I should be happy that I was the loving daughter and did right by Mom and the family.

I was attending a hospice grief group; then COVID-19 happened. Since then, my life has spiraled downward and out of control. I no longer find peace, happiness or contentment within myself — or anything else, for that matter. I have dived back into an unhealthy lifestyle of sex addiction, from which I had been in recovery for seven years. I use false intimacy with strangers to mask my pain. I'm married to a wonderful man, but I have taken up with an emotionally toxic man who is also an alcoholic. I'm living in two separate worlds. And yes, I am under the care of a psychiatrist and take medication for my depression and bipolar disorder, to no avail.

How do I stop running and face my mom's death head on? I fear I am stuck in the anger stage of mourning. I read your advice column every day. I am hoping you can give me some sound advice. — Missing Mom

Dear Missing: Please, friend, stop telling yourself you "should be happy." Honor your grief. You lost your mom. Of course you're devastated. Grief is the natural response when someone we love dies.

You mentioned you're seeing a psychiatrist. I'd also encourage you to see a therapist who specializes in grief and addiction. It sounds as though the hospice group was helpful to you in the past. While in-person options are still limited, consider exploring online grief support communities, such as the forums at grieving.com. Depending on your age, you might also like to check out The Dinner Party, which is an online platform that connects people in their 20s and 30s who are grieving the death of a loved one (thedinnerparty.org).

Also, I encourage you to read the book "It's OK That You're Not OK," by grief counselor Megan Devine. You might also get something out of "Wild," a memoir by Cheryl Strayed, about her journey through addiction and recovery in the years following the loss of her mother. Words can't express how sorry I am.

How do I negotiate a raise?

Dear Annie: I have been working at the same company for 12 years, and I haven't gotten a raise in five years. I never got in the habit of asking for them, because they used to give me a small salary bump every other year. But that petered out when a new CEO took over.

A few months ago, I was at lunch with two co-workers when the subject of salaries came up. I asked them if they'd received any pay bumps in the past few years, and they both said that they had. This gave me the guts I needed to ask my supervisor to meet with me. I presented a list of my accomplishments over the past four years and said that I believed I had earned a raise. He said that pretty much no one was getting raises anymore, at which point I tentatively mentioned (without naming names) that I'd heard some other employees had received raises. He got visibly angry and told me that I should never discuss my salary with another employee at the company and asked me to leave his office immediately. After that, I dropped the issue.

But now I'm wishing I'd pushed back and am considering asking him for another meeting. Am I crazy? — Taken for Granted

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Taken: It's a violation of the National Labor Relations Act for employers to forbid employees from discussing their wages. Contact the National Labor Relations Board at 1-844-762-6572 for guidance on what recourse you may have. Whatever comes of that, it might be time to dust off that resume. Because, beyond being illegal, your boss's behavior is just plain old disrespectful. You'd be better off working for a company that recognizes your worth.

Dear Annie: My wife has been on pain medication for almost a decade, and it has turned into a serious addiction. I have to monitor her pills weekly — though, recently, it's been daily. She hasn't worked at all the last decade, ever since she started getting prescribed the painkillers. She lays in bed all day long, sleeping or watching TV. I've bought several safes to lock away her pills in so that I can only administer to her what she needs. She's broken into all of them. I keep the pills with me at all times so that I can make sure she doesn't take too much. She's constantly deriding me, blaming me for her not having enough pills. She always pleads, "Just give me tomorrow's pills tonight." She has now brought our adult children into this mess by trying to make them pick sides in this ongoing fight, but the kids know she has a problem! I have brought up rehab several times, but she dismisses the idea and claims she doesn't need it. This past year, I got her an appointment with a therapist. It was just online, through videoconference, and my wife completely blew it off, barely paying attention to the therapist. After 25 years of marriage, I'm about ready to file for divorce. Help! — Tired of Mother's Little Helper

Dear Tired: Of course you're exhausted. You're living in the tides of addiction, but you don't have to be subject to the constant push and pull. To find some grounding, I strongly encourage you to check out Nar-Anon (<https://www.nar-anon.org>) or SMART Recovery Family and Friends (<https://www.smartrecovery.org/family>). You cannot neglect your own mental health.

Local library to display 9/11 Memorial and Museum's education exhibition

BY SPECIAL TO THE COURIER
Jefferson County Public Library will participate in September 11, 2001: The Day That Changed the World, an educational exhibition that presents the history of 9/11, its origins, and its ongoing implications through the personal stories of those who witnessed and survived the attacks.
Told across 14 posters, this exhibition includes archival photographs and images of artifacts from the Museum's permanent collection. It explores the consequences of terrorism on individual lives and communities at the local, national, and international levels, and encourages critical thinking about the legacies of 9/11.
"The library is honored to provide this exhibit for our community as it demonstrates two important values of our mission: to pursue lifelong learning and to better understand personal and regional heritage. We must not forget those who have come before us and the sacrifice that many have made in service for the benefit of others," — said Kara Motsinger, Jefferson County Children's Librarian.

Twenty years after the attacks, with terrorism still a threat today, the events of 9/11 and its aftermath remind us that we may never be able to prevent all the actions of people intent on harming others, but we do have control over how we respond to such events. Whether by volunteering in our local communities, serving our nation in the military, caring for the sick, or through other efforts, all of us can help build the world in which we want to live. As we witness history unfolding in our own time, the ways we choose to respond — both large and small — can demonstrate the best of human nature after even the worst of days.
This 9/11 Memorial & Museum curated exhibition reflects the core pillars of commemoration, education, and inspiration as we prepare to observe the 20th anniversary of the 9/11 attacks.
"During this 20th anniversary year, it is our privilege to share these lessons with a new generation, teach them about the ongoing repercussions of the 9/11 attacks and inspire them with the idea that, even in the darkest of times, we can come together, support one another and find the strength to renew and rebuild," said 9/11 Memorial & Museum President and CEO Alice M. Greenwald.

The poster exhibition was developed by the 9/11 Memorial & Museum and has been made possible in part by the National Endowment for the Humanities: Democracy Demands Wisdom. Any views, findings, conclusions, or recommendations expressed in this exhibition do not necessarily represent those of the National endowment for Humanities.

Public Defender Board seeking nominations

BY THE COURIER STAFF
Nominations are being sought through Wednesday, Sept. 8 for the Jefferson County Public Defender Board.
"When citizens are accused of a crime and cannot afford an attorney, both the Indiana and United States Constitutions require that they are entitled to an appointed attorney," said Indiana Public Defender Commission Chair Mark W. Rutherford. "In Jefferson County, that system is managed by the Public Defender Board, and citizens are encouraged to take an active involvement in that board."
Indiana statute states that the Jefferson County Public Defender Board is composed of three members: one appointed by the County Commissioners, one appointed by the County Judiciary, and one appointed by the Commission. The Commission's appointee must be a resident of Jefferson County.
Based on statute, appointees must be "persons who have demonstrated an interest in high-quality legal representation for indigent persons." The board meets at least quarterly and has oversight responsibilities for the delivery of public defense services in Jefferson County. Individuals are appointed for a three-year term.
Nominations are due Wednesday, Sept. 8 and appointments will be made by the Commission at the Wednesday, Sept. 22 Commission Meeting, which is open to the public. Jefferson County has been participating since 2017 in the Commission's reimbursement program in exchange for following standards for the delivery of public defense services. The county has received approximately a $850,000 since that time.
To submit your interest, email Information@pdcom.in.gov and a member of the Commission staff will contact you. See the Commission's website (<https://www.in.gov/publicdefender/>) for additional information. Follow the Commission on Twitter at @IndianaPDCom.

SEASON PREVIEW

New coach, attitude has Trimble ready to kick off season

BY LAUREN HANEY

Trimble County football comes into the 2021 season with a new coaching staff, new players, and a new attitude. After a rare bye in week one, the Raiders are ready to hit the field for real on Saturday at home against Caverna.

First-year head coach J.P. Dale has been working his team hard in the preseason and showcased those efforts in a scrimmage against Eminence two weeks ago.

"I was pleased with our effort. The first scrimmage, the execution is always going to be shaky. I think we were overwhelmed in our first defensive series," Dale said. "Several young guys played, and played well. We kind of pulled together and realized that we belong. We can play with anyone that's on our schedule."

After a significant growth in team numbers, Dale is excited about the leadership and effort being shown by his players.

"We've got some leadership out of a couple of kids that has impressed me. On defense, I expect some pretty big things out of Kaden May. He's played pretty well in the scrimmage and in practice and his leadership has been great," said Dale.

Trimble County's Jessup Smith (8) hammers Owen County's Josh Mason as teammate Tucker Smith closes in during a game last year. Jessup Smith will be one of the Raiders' key players this season.

"Offensively we're going to go as far as our line can take us. I have two very good offensive line coaches so I know they're getting coached well. There's an older group on the offensive line that'll push us far."

The Raiders are expecting big things out of this season. After the bye week, the Raiders are ready to take on the Caverna Colonels on Saturday, a game originally scheduled for Friday night but moved out of necessity in order to find game officials.

"I'm not a big fan of playing on Saturdays, but for us to have officials it's what we had to do," said

Dale. "As far as Caverna goes, they're pretty well coached. They have some athletes. If we keep it in front of us we'll be in good shape."

Trimble and Caverna will kick off at 7 p.m. The Raiders then head across the Ohio River next week to take on Switzerland County.

CARROLL, SWITZERLAND GAMES ARE CANCELED

Both Carroll County and Switzerland County were forced to cancel their football games this week due to COVID-19 protocols.

Carroll County was supposed to host Henry County but that game will go down as a forfeit under KHSAA rules. The Panthers were also forced to forfeit last week's season opener against North Oldham. Carroll (0-2) is scheduled to play at Madison next week.

Switzerland County had its contest at Gallatin County canceled. The Pacers will host Trimble County next week.

COVID-19 has also impacted the Southwestern sports schedule. The school has postponed all boys soccer, girls soccer and volleyball games this week.

LADY REBELS BLANKED AT MILAN

Southwestern girls soccer suffered an 8-0 loss at Milan on Monday.

"COVID and the heat took a toll on us. Even though we lost 0-8, there were several good things we saw both in team and individual play," Southwestern coach Nancy Totten said. "Jess Esquivel, a senior captain, showed great leadership both on and off the field."

Southwestern, now 0-2 overall and 0-1 Ohio River Valley Conference, hosted Switzerland County on Wednesday and hosts Rising Sun next Monday.

CARROLL GIRLS FALL TO WALTON

Carroll County girls soccer suffered a 3-0 loss at home to Walton-Verona on Monday.

Madison, now 2-3, had its match on Tuesday against Greensburg canceled due to the heat. The Cubs return to action today when they travel to Columbus East. Madison then hosts Trinity Lutheran on Monday.

Southwestern traveled to New Washington on Wednesday and hosts Trinity Lutheran today.

Sanders eager to raise profile of Jackson State

BY PAT GRAHAM
ASSOCIATED PRESS

Coach Prime, aka Deion Sanders, sauntered into the office of Nick Saban with a marching band following his lead.

"Coach Prime, what, no smoke machine?" the Alabama coach quizzically asked.

Yep, that happened — in a scene for an Aflac commercial featuring the two high-profile college head coaches.

It's the sort of splash Sanders hopes to make this fall in his second season at Jackson State. With that, another objective: Raising the profile of schools such as Jackson State and other historically Black colleges and universities.

"We're going to fight and do our darndest to start changing the landscape of HBCU football," Sanders said in an interview with The Associated Press. "Then, consequently, we can go to the next step and the next level. The fight is not going to be easy. Getting the players to commit to a historically Black college is not easy because you've got to level the playing field."

Scores drop as Madison golf wins quad meet

Cubs’ Bronkella, Gasaway post career-bests

BY THE COURIER STAFF
Madison put together one of its best rounds of the season Monday to win a quad golf match at North Branch Golf Course.

The Cubs shot a 184 and scored three of their four players under 50 on the day. Keara Eder led the way with a 37, which was good for medalist, while Grace Bronkella had a 40, Gracie Gasaway a 46 and Lilly Fox a 61. The scores for both Bronkella and Gasaway were career-bests.

Shawe shot a 205 as a team to place second. Kira Wells shot a 46 for the Hilltoppers, Bailey Kilgore had a 50, Gia Craig a 52 and Yolett Perez a 57.

David Campbell
Madison golfer Grace Bronkella shot a career-best 40 in the Cubs’ win at North Branch on Monday.

“Tonight was not our best effort. Kira hit out of bounds on the first couple of holes but played well down the stretch to salvage a 46. Bailey and Gia were solid tee to green but still struggled with the putter,” Shawe coach David Hertz said. “Really the same story for Yolett as she hit her driver well but had her problems with her irons. It’s nothing that can’t be fixed ... we just have to put the work in that’s needed.”

Neither Southwestern nor Jac-Cen-Del posted team scores. Ximena Vilchis-Harrison had a 59 and Kayla Boscia a 69 for Southwestern while Tracy McKittrick had a 51, Ally Mosier a 57 and Emma Wagner a 69 for Jac-Cen-Del.

On Tuesday, Southwestern competed at Wooded View Golf Course against Clarksville and New Washington. New Washington was the only school to field a complete team and shot a 276.

Vilchis-Harrison had a 59 for the Rebels, Hannah Sampson had a 64 and Boscia a 74.

“Everyone made several positive improvements in their game tonight,” Southwestern coach Matt Johnson said. “I was happy to see situations that we have practiced being better executed in play.”

Ashley Wills led New Washington with a 65, Avery Wilson had a 66, Emily Poole a 72 and Alyssa Burke a 73.

Clarksville’s Emily Kaiser was the low-medalist with a 53, Summer Neal had a 55 and Leslie North a 73.

Madison’s match at Henryville on Tuesday was canceled due to the heat. The Cubs host Columbus East today and host Jennings County on Monday.

Shawe competed at Jennings County on Wednesday and travels to Henryville next Tuesday.

Southwestern faces Shawe and Switzerland County at Sunrise Golf Course on Wednesday, Sept. 1.

Brewers rally for 4 in 7th, beat Reds, 7-4, to increase lead

BY RICH ROVITO
ASSOCIATED PRESS
MILWAUKEE — Omar Narváez hit a tiebreaking double in a four-run seventh inning, Kolten Wong added a two-run homer in the eighth and the Milwaukee Brewers rallied past the Cincinnati Reds 7-4 on Tuesday night.

Milwaukee shortstop Willy Adames exited early with a leg injury, but the first-place Brewers hit a trio of sacrifice flies to win the opener of a three-game series between the top two teams in the NL Central.

They increased their division lead to 8 1/2 games over Cincinnati, which remained a game ahead of the Padres for the second NL wild card. San Diego lost 5-2 to the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Hunter Strickland (3-1) pitched a scoreless inning in relief of starter Corbin Burnes to help Milwaukee win for the 11th time in 14 games. Josh Hader earned his 27th save in 28 chances.

“Our offense had a great approach,” Cincinnati manager David Bell said. “Got out in front and scored multiple runs off an excellent pitcher.”

Reds starter Tyler Mahle held Milwaukee to one run before getting lifted in the sixth.

Milwaukee trailed 4-1 in the seventh but began the inning with three straight hits off reliever Michael Lorenzen (0-1). Wong’s run-scoring single cut the deficit to 4-2. After Lorenzen walked Jace Peterson to load the bases, Mychal Givens gave up consecutive sacrifice flies to Christian Yelich and Avisail Garcia.

Narváez then laced a double into the right-field corner to give the Brewers a 5-4 lead.

Wong belted a two-run shot in the eighth to make it a three-run advantage.

“It’s always good to take those games and hope you take the morale out of a team, but we’ve got two more big games coming up and they’re not going away and neither are we,” Wong said.

The Brewers got on the board in the first against Mahle when Adames doubled with one out, moved to third on Yelich’s single and scored on Garcia’s sacrifice fly. Adames then exited due to left quadriiceps discomfort in a move the team deemed precautionary.

“It’s not serious but it’s enough where it’s just coming up every day. We are just going to be cautious,” Counsell said. “He won’t be in the lineup tomorrow. It’s not worth taking the risk.”

In the fourth, the Reds loaded the bases with no outs. Mike Moustakas singled to tie it. Kyle Farmer’s base hit gave Cincinnati a 2-1 lead and Tucker Barnhart’s sacrifice fly made it a two-run margin.

Cincinnati extended the lead to 4-1 in the sixth when Moustakas led off with a double and scored on Barnhart’s single.

Mahle retired nine consecutive batters until walking Narváez and giving up a single to Luis Urias with two outs in the sixth. Lorenzen came on to retire Rowdy Tellez on a deep fly to left field.

TRAINER’S ROOM
Reds: Reinstated RHP Tejay Antone (right forearm strain) from the 10-day injured list and designated LHP Sean Doolittle for assignment. Antone relieved in the eighth but called a trainer to the mound as he faced his first batter and left the game. “He definitely felt something in his elbow,” Bell said. “It’s obviously very concerning.” ... Cincinnati reinstated RHP Michael Feliz (right elbow sprain) from the 60-day injured list and designated him for assignment.

Brewers: Placed infielder Eduardo Escobar on the 10-day injured list with a strained right hamstring and recalled infielder/outfielder Pablo Reyes from Triple-A Nashville. Counsell said he expects Escobar, who left Sunday’s game with the injury, to be out about two weeks. ... RHP Freddy Peralta, on the 10-day injured list with right shoulder inflammation, could return when the team travels to San Francisco next week, Counsell said. ... Garcia, who showed off a bruise on his left hand before the game from being hit by a pitch in St. Louis, got hit in the same spot again by Mahle in the third but remained in the game.

QUOTABLE
“We got about two weeks where we were pretty close to full strength. That doesn’t last,” Counsell said when asked if the team has the depth to compensate for a rash of recent injuries.

BIG PITCH
Professional wrestler Paul Wight threw out the ceremonial first pitch. Wight, who stands 7-feet tall and weighs nearly 400 pounds, is best known for his tenure in the WWE where he wrestled under the name The Big Show.

GIANNIS WATCHES
NBA Finals MVP Giannis Antetokounmpo, dressed in a Brewers jersey, took in the game with his son, Liam. The Milwaukee Bucks star is now a part-owner of the Brewers, the team announced last week.

ACC, Big Ten, Pac-12 to ‘protect the collegiate model’

BY RALPH D. RUSSO
AP COLLEGE FOOTBALL WRITER

Facing a rapidly shifting landscape in college sports, the Atlantic Coast Conference, Big Ten and Pac-12 have agreed to work together to create stability during volatile times.

Less than a month after the Southeastern Conference made an expansion power play by inviting Texas and Oklahoma to the league, three of the SEC’s Power Five peers countered with an alliance of 41 schools that span from Miami to Seattle.

The commissioners of the ACC, Big Ten and Pac-12 on Tuesday pledged broad collaboration on myriad issues and committed to league members playing more football and basketball games against each other.

They also suggested they wouldn’t be poaching each other’s schools.

“The history of college athletics, one expansion of a conference has usually led to another to another and to another,” ACC Commissioner Jim Phillips said during a video conference. “And to the three of us, we felt the stabilization of the current environment, across Division I and FBS — in Power Five in particular — this was a chance for a new direction, a new initiative that I don’t think has ever been done before.”

After weeks of internal discussions, the alliance is still mostly conceptual and collegial.

“There’s no contract. There’s no signed document,” Pac-12 Commissioner George Kliavkoff said. “There’s an agreement among three gentlemen and a commitment from 41 presidents and chancellors and 41 athletic directors to do what we say we’re going to do.”

The SEC sent shockwaves through college athletics in July when it was revealed that Texas and Oklahoma would be leaving the Big 12 to join the nation’s most powerful football conference no later than 2025.

“I wouldn’t say this is a reaction to Texas and Oklahoma joining the SEC, but to be totally candid you have to evaluate what’s going on in the landscape of college athletics,” Big Ten Commissioner Kevin Warren said.

In a statement, SEC Commissioner Greg Sankey said: “We have respect for each of our conference colleagues and look forward to our future collaborations. I believe we remain unified by our shared beliefs around the positive impact college sports has on the lives of student-athletes throughout our communities.”

As for the Big 12, its future is murky at best as the eight remaining members plot their next moves and try to work out a divorce from the Longhorns and Sooners. The realignment of Texas and Oklahoma could lead the Power Five to shrink to four.

“We want and need the Big 12 to do well,” Phillips said. “The Big 12 matters in college athletics.”

But it will not be part of the alliance.

The alliance also is being formed as the NCAA shakes off a Supreme Court loss and considers handing off more responsibility to conferences and schools to run college sports. The NCAA Board of Governors has called a special constitutional convention in November, the first step toward what could be sweeping reform and a decentralized governance model.

“We did the alliance to protect the collegiate model,” said Kliavkoff, who is only in his second month on the job of leading the Pac-12 after serving as president of sports and entertainment for MGM Resorts International in Las Vegas.

There is also a proposal to expand the College Football Playoff from four to 12 teams currently in the pipeline. The proposal was crafted by Sankey, Big 12 Commissioner Bob Bowlsby, Mountain West Commissioner Craig Thompson and Notre Dame athletic director Jack Swarbrick, and unveiled publicly in June.

Kliavkoff and Warren both said their conferences support playoff expansion, while Phillips said the ACC had not landed on a final position.

The commissioners and university presidents are scheduled to meet in late September in Chicago to discuss what comes next for the expansion proposal.

“This is not a voting bloc,” Kliavkoff said of the alliance in a brief interview with AP. “We’ve not committed to voting together on anything. We’ve committed to discuss all of these issues, and to try to come up with solutions that are in the best interest of long-term college athletics.

Ohio State Badgers Big Ten favorites

BY ERIC OLSON
AP COLLEGE FOOTBALL WRITER

Tom Allen strung together four words not usually associated with his Indiana football program.

“A lot of expectations,” he said.

Hoosier hype is well-founded this year, though it’s hard to imagine anyone dethroning preseason No. 4 Ohio State as king of the Big Ten. The Buckeyes have won four straight conference titles, played in the national championship game last season and are expected to keep rolling even with an inexperienced quarterback.

But if anyone is poised to challenge Ohio State in the Big Ten East, 17th-ranked Indiana is a trendy pick with the return of quarterback Michael Penix Jr.

The Hoosiers were a revelation last season, going 6-1 before their Outback Bowl loss to Mississippi and being ranked in the top 10 for six weeks. That one regular-season loss was at home to Ohio State, 42-35, after Indiana was down 35-7 in the third quarter.

Indiana brings back the core of a defense that led the Big Ten with 25 sacks and had 17 interceptions. The key for the offense is keeping the dynamic, injury prone Penix healthy. He missed the last two games with a torn ACL. He’s among eight returning offensive starters, a group that includes Big Ten receiver of the year Ty Fryfogle.

Allen said his hope is that success can breed success. Remember, this is a program that hasn’t had three straight winning seasons — overall or in conference play — since the mid-1940s.

“That’s been the challenge, to go from believing — and I believe we have a team that believes — to now expecting a certain outcome on game day,” he said.

The biggest question for Ohio State is at quarterback, where redshirt freshman C.J. Stroud has won the job to replace Justin Fields. Stroud, who has never thrown a pass in a college game, will be surrounded by best-in-the-nation talent at receiver and on the line. The defense will have new starters at linebacker but is experienced up front and in the secondary.

No. 19 Penn State and Michigan are looking to bounce back after disappointing seasons, Maryland and Rutgers appear to be teams on the rise and Michigan State is looking to find traction under second-year coach Mel Tucker.

Wisconsin is the favorite in the West after going 4-3 and finishing third in the division last year. The No. 12 Badgers had two games canceled because of COVID-19 issues and were plagued by injuries. They return quarterback Graham Mertz and plenty of experience at other positions.

No. 18 Iowa enters the season on a six-game win streak, has a second-year starting quarterback in Spencer Petras and should have another strong defense if it can restock its line.

Northwestern, which made a surprise run to the Big Ten championship game last year, had two players taken in the first round of the NFL draft and ranks near the bottom of the FBS in returning production.

Minnesota and Nebraska have fourth-year starting quarterbacks in Tanner Morgan and Adrian Martinez, respectively, and are looking to move up.

Purdue and Illinois will battle to stay out of the West basement. Jeff Brohm’s Boilermakers showed promise his first two years and not so much the last two. Illinois is looking for a fresh start with Bret Bielema.

TOP PLAYERS

Offense: Minnesota RB Mohamed Ibrahim averaged a school-record 153.7 yards per game and is the nation’s top returning rusher. Indiana QB Penix passed for a Big Ten-leading 274.2

yards per game. Purdue WR David Bell and Ohio State WR Chris Olave each averaged 104 yards per game.

Defense: Northwestern S Brandon Joseph intercepted five passes and was an AP first-team All-American. Indiana LB Micah McFadden led the Big Ten with six sacks. Rutgers LB Olakunle Fatukasi’s 11.2 tackles per game led conference and were most by a Scarlet Knight since 1999.

BIELEMA’S BACK

Bret Bielema is back in the Big Ten after eight years away. He takes over an Illinois program that has had nine straight losing seasons under three coaches.

“I just want to fill this stadium,” he said. “I know people don’t put money and support into something they don’t believe in, and I want to show them what they can believe in.”

Bielema was 68-24 at Wisconsin from 2006-12. He coached five seasons at Arkansas and was an NFL assistant for three before replacing Lovie Smith at Illinois.

Bielema said he and athletic director Josh Whitman haven’t discussed specific goals for this season.

“He’s brought me here to build sustained success for a long time,” Bielema said.

MAKE OR BREAK SEASONS

The pressure is cranked up another notch on Michigan’s Jim Harbaugh and Nebraska’s Scott Frost.

Harbaugh signed a contract extension through 2025, but the new deal cuts his base pay and promises more only if he reaches benchmarks like the Big Ten championship game. He’s 49-22 in six years at Michigan but he’s yet to win the East and has lost four games each of the last two seasons.

Frost is 12-20 in three years and under contract through 2026. He goes into this season under the cloud of an NCAA investigation into an allegation he used analysts as on-field coaches. He also is suspected of conducting improper workouts last year at a time they weren’t allowed because of the pandemic.

Wentz leads key trio of Colts back onto practice field

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WESTFIELD— Carson Wentz got back to work with the Indianapolis Colts on Monday — and looked sharp.

Three-time All-Pro guard Quenton Nelson and center Ryan Kelly joined him at practice for the first time since late July.

Yes, all three starters returned from injuries, finally giving the Colts a glimpse of what they might look like at full strength. Wentz and Nelson hadn't worked out since having surgery in early August to remove bone fragments from their feet. Kelly had been out with a hyperextended left elbow. All three are expected to do limited work this week.

“It was a lot of fun, honestly,” said Wentz, the new starting quarterback acquired from Philadelphia in a March trade. “I don't like watching practice, I'd much rather be doing it and it was fun. It was fun to get out there today and to not think about it a lot and just play ball. I came out of it very confident.”

Colts coach Frank Reich and receiver Zach Pascal liked what they saw from Wentz, too, acknowledging he appeared to be in sync with his teammates despite missing three weeks.

It's a promising sign after watching second-year quarterback Jacob Eason and rookie Sam Ehlinger, a sixth-round pick, split most of the first-team snaps in Wentz's absence. While both showed promise, each also has struggled at times — perhaps something to be expected given neither had thrown against an opposing NFL defense until Aug. 12. Veteran quarterback Brett Hundley has been third on the depth chart.

But Wentz's return three weeks after surgery and a week sooner than Reich anticipated might be the most promising indication Indy's offense could have the entire trio ready for the Sept. 12 season opener against Seattle.

More hurdles remain.

All three spent last week rehabbing behind the scenes but now must demonstrate they can complete practices on successive days. Each, Reich said, also will be monitored closely between workouts. Nelson has never missed a start in his first three seasons and has told teammates and coaches he doesn't intend to start now.

The bigger question is Wentz, who has a long injury history and has been told by team officials not to rush the recovery.

Still, having the trio back at practice was a welcome sight for Reich, who missed the first week of training camp after testing positive for COVID-19.

Reich's team has been dealing with injuries ever since.

On his first day back, he announced Wentz would miss five to 12 weeks with surgery. The next day he announced Nelson had the same prognosis with the same injury. All-Pro line-backer Darius Leonard also missed the first two weeks of camp while recovering from ankle surgery in June.

So Monday was the first time Indy was near full strength since reporting to Westfield, Indiana, on July 27. Camp wraps up Wednesday before the final preseason game Friday at Detroit.
